Bradshaw Medical Announces New Utility Patent

All of BMI's rod cutters feature telescoping over molded silicone handles.

03/06/12 Kenosha, WI: Bradshaw Medical, Inc. (BMI) announced earlier today that they were issued utility patent US 8,127,454 B1 for their innovative Rod Cutter developed by Dr. Hua Gao, Vice President of Research and Development.

“BMI is excited to introduce the only cutters in the industry that can consistently and effectively cut 6.0mm Cobalt Chrome spinal rods 300+ cuts before re-sharpening is required. An industry first spinal rod cutter with modular replaceable cartridges to quickly accommodate multiple rod diameters and they have the unique ability to be used either handheld or with an optional tabletop mount,” stated Guy Bradshaw, Chairman.
